UNIVERSITY SUBJECT TEACHING + COMPETENCIES REQUESTED BY 21ST CENTURY EMPLOYERS = A PERFECT MATCH?

Lena Manderstedt: Lena.Manderstedt@ltu.se, Adrian Rodriguez: Adrian.Rodriguez@ltu.se, Annbritt Palo: Annbritt.Palo@ltu.se

WHY?
- to implement and develop a learning environment based on core competencies and national exam general objectives to help teachers support their students’ development of core competencies

Project design
- mapping of core competencies in courses and programs
- qualitative interviews with university teachers and undergraduate students
- identification of key challenges and bridging them
- development of a set of digital materials
- online publication

Design challenges
- finding the right people to film
- balancing general and subject-specific examples
- balancing examples from different sectors, programs, and courses
- scholarly vs teaching practice approach

WHAT?
- Film clips of excellent university teachers explaining and providing clear examples of how they implement core competencies in their subjects
- Further examples and references in the films
- Supplement to existing courses in university pedagogy
- Openly available online and accessible for both teachers and students